PATENTLY OBVIOUS:
Alice McCall's debut bag collection in patent leather – this season's must-have – is what every fashionable girl will sport this summer. Leather clutch, $220.

FAB FIND
On the look-out for some hot new accessories? Check out Zoe Mou's great laser-cut leather necklaces, $132, spotted on the runway of the Nookie collection. Visit www.zoemou.com.

ONE TO WATCH
With its exaggerated proportions and silhouettes, designer Gail Reid's collection, Sorronda, is causing a stir. She is stocked at Corner Shop in Sydney and Figure 8 in London, LA, Brisbane and New Zealand – not bad for a girl with her fashion design degree just two years old.

ROMPER S
MAFW heralded the jumpsuit – and we have avoided it of 7pm bedtime. From last season's designers Kirrily Gorman, Alice Zimmermann, Bettina Liano and Tina Kalivas, the old look new again.

Retro revival
What '80s-inspired collection would be complete without the Ray-Ban Wayfarer? Marnie Skillings' collection of "affluent leisurewear" was the perfect complement to this design classic, $155, from Sunglasses Hut.

FASHION WEEK
SYDNEY

SPEAKING VOLUMES
While the temperature outside may be plummeting, all fashion eyes are now firmly focused on the coming summer season, which was showcased at the recent Mercedes Australian Fashion Week in Sydney. By far the biggest trend to emerge from the week was volume. With exaggerated proportions taking shape for the last couple of seasons on the international catwalks, it was only a matter of time before balloon sleeves and hems would be billowing elegantly down our runways, alongside cinched waists that accentuated full skirts. Kirrily Johnston, Camilla and Marc, Akira, Bettina Liano, Tina Kalivas, Zimmermann, Toni Maticevski and Aurelio Costarella were just a few of the big names to join the gang.

TINA KALIVAS GOES APE
Spotted under the arm of one of the models in her show, this furry friend shows that the Tina Kalivas girl, with her corsetry and whips, may play it tough, but she is a big softie at heart.
